

The African Cultural Exposition - Reaching & Teaching Everyone

By: Dr. Shirley H. Hardin, Director
African American Studies, Valdosta State University

In a shrinking and interdependent world, no section can be neglected. Thus, for many participants and spectators, the African Cultural Exposition will serve as an introduction to modern black Africa, focusing on the rich, diverse cultures of nine black African countries: Cameroon, Egypt, Ethiopia, Ghana, Kenya, Liberia, Senegal, South Africa, and Uganda. The African Cultural Exposition is a wonderful opportunity to experience the freshness and excitement of another culture, while broadening one's global, cultural experiences and liberating one from suffocating ignorance about other peoples and their cultures. In addition, this exhibition of African artifacts, dance, song, and informative narration will help to destroy stereotypes that damage Africans and Americans alike and build bridges for better understanding and cooperation between the two worlds. Perhaps most important is the awesome opportunity to see the uniqueness of African customs and traditions and their similarities to other world cultures, proving that we all are more alike than we are different.
